Antique Brass usually has a rich, dark brown shade with golden undertones. An attractive, low-luster finish that resembles natural brass without tarnishing. Among the Satin brass, bronze, chrome, black, oil-rubbed bronze, and nickel finishes are available. Choose a finish that complements other fixtures in your room. Also, consider the finish of your curtains and furnishings. Make sure your curtain rod supports your drapery without drawing too much attention. Questions & Answers

1. How long can closet rods go without support?

Closet rods are available in custom lengths from 72" to 144" inches. When the beams are longer than 48 inches, a center support must be used. It is recommended to add additional closet rod supports if the closet rod will have to support heavy items (such as winter coats, suits, etc.). 2. For curtain rods and closet rods, what diameter brass tubing do people usually use?

Picking the right Diameter and Wall Thickness has to do with the span of the opening, brackets used for mounting, mounting of the hardware to the wall, weight of clothes expected, is some sagging acceptable, and the desired look you are trying to achieve.

We can supply Hollow Brass Tubing in Multiple Diameters, Wall Thickness, lengths, and Finishes. Diameters available : 3/8" , 1/2" , 5/8" , 3/4" , 1" , 1 1/4" , 1 1/2" and 2". Lengths available : 6'-0" and 12'-0" we can cut these to sizes as per your measurements.

Guideline recommendations for 1 1/4" D Tubing's, Your designer and contractor should make decisions per the project requirements.

- 1) 0.040 MM Standard rods should be supported at every 2 to 2 1/2 feet by center brackets
- 2) 0.062 MM Thicker rods should be supported at every 3 to 3 1/2 feet by center brackets
- 3) 0.125 MM Standard rods should be supported at every 4 1/2 to 5 feet by center brackets

Most People use 1 1/4" Diameter brass tubing for their Closets Rods, these work best for standard clothes hangers. 1" or 1 1/2" diameter work fine as well. 3. What are the types of curtain rods and how to choose right curtain rod?
